ASHEVILLE HOST OF S. S. CONVENTION NEXT YEAR

Unanimously Selected by Workers Yesterday ---New Officers Elected---Closing Address by Marion Lawrance Last Night.

Special to Telegram.

High Point, April 28.—"What Shall the Harvest Be?" was the subject of the closing address of the Sunday School Convention, delivered by Marion Lawrance tonight. As the great Sunday school leader spoke on the above subject the large audience was thrilled and enthused. The address was declared to have been the strongest one of the entire convention and it can be truly said that the speaker swayed his hearers as he spoke of the work of the Sunday school and the great benefits that are to be derived when the officers and teachers are earnest and consecrated workers.

Preceding Mr. Lawrance was an address on "Jesus Making Truth Clear" by Rev. B. W. Spillman. The remainder of the closing session was taken up with the reports of committees, the presentation of banners and the introduction of the new officers.

Today's Sessions.

At this morning's session the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, W. R. Odell, Concord.

Vice President, A. M. Scales, Greensboro; John T. Pullen, Raleigh; Lewis Collins, Asheville.

Member International Committee, N. B. Broughton, Raleigh.

International Vice President for North Carolina, George W. Watts, Durham.

Treasurer, E. B. Crowe.

Office Secretary, Miss Maude Reid, Raleigh.

Field Secretary, J. Van Carter, Raleigh.

Elementary Superintendent, Mrs. E. R. Michaux, Greensboro.

Teacher Training, J. C. Wooton, Wilmington.

Organized Classes, T. B. Eldridge, Raleigh.

Missionary Superintendent, Mrs. G. W. Whitsett, Greensboro.

Visitation Supterintendent, Mrs. Redding, High Point.

The election of a superintendent of the Home Department was left with the executive committee.

The convention voted unanimously to accept the invitation of Asheville to meet in that city next year.

This morning twenty workers volunteered to give $100 each to the support of the organized class work in the State, this sum to be paid in three years, at the end of which time the donors will have become life members of the association. This completes the raising of the $4,000 wanted for the support of organized work.

Report of L. F. Johnson, Statistician, To North Carolina Sunday School Association.

NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 28.—It is a fact that there are a great number of the railroad towns of 2,000 and more inhabitants that will be found to be exempted from the operation of the act of the recent Legislature passed at the insistances of the traveling men to require an extra ticket window for exchanging tickets for mileage. The act left the exemptions discretionary with the Corporation Commission and there have been in progress for several days hearings and presentations of satistical evidence for exempting great numbers of towns.

The list of exemptions is to be made public very soon now. It really looks like that the town with the double window service will be decidedly the exception. For instance the showing at New Bern, a thriving little city of 5,000 people is that the average sale of mileage tickets is only 2 3-8 tickets per train per day. It is argued that for the commission to insist on maintenance of a special window for this service would be out of the question. General Passenger Agent W. W. Croxton and Traffic Manager B. L. Bugg, of the Norfolk & Southern, were here for a conference today as to exemptions desired on their lines.

Official notification came to the secretary of state today of the organization of the North Carolina Interurban Railway Company, with principal office in Rutherfordton and with J. C. Mills as president and J. T. Gardner as secretary. The corporation was chartered by the last Legislature. The par value of capital stock has been fixed at $5 for common and $20 for preferred.

There is an amendment for the charter of the Gaston & Tate Company, Marion, that decreases the capital stock from $15,000 to $6,000. E. L. Gaston and J. H. Tate are the principal stockholders.

A charter is granted for the Carolina Coast Line Company, New Bern, with $100,000 capital authorized and $13.000 subscribed for mining marl, limestone and other materials.

There is an interesting point of law put up to Secretary Elias Carr, of the state department of agriculture by Carl Heinrick Vogel, recently from Fatherh Land of Germany, now at Newark, N. J., and desirous of procuring a farm in Wilkes county. The special question that has the versatile secretary's greatest interest reads like this: "North Carolina is temperance or prohibition, I know. And I do not like saloons or whiskey stores, but I like still liberty and suppose I get me shipped in secret some apple whiskey to make me at home my own milk-punch, that is a very fine sober drink, is there any hard punishment if I use such drink only for my own use?" Some of the other questions propounded are these: "I like to buy a Wilkes farm and can I slay down some wood to use for field, or is there the legislature that the forest must be forest forever like in Germany where there must be one fifth forest? In there any law concerning purchase than in other states? I mean if I buy that ground recorded by the court be I than not the real owner because I be still a stranger? Have I to live some years in that State before I be the real owner?"

It is estimated that there are 620,000 acres in wheat this season in North Carolina as compared with 570,000 acres for the previous crop. The winter conditions cannot be said to have been favorable for the development of the crop owing to the absence of snow, but reports from the principal wheat sections now to the state department of agriculture are that there is rapid development so that a percentage of 95 is about a fair estimate of comparison with the normal yield.

Adjutant General R. L. Leinster is notified that Company L, Lumber Bridge, is the winner of the first price of $20 for the highest score of any team in the Second Regiment rifle range contest at Goldsboro this week. Also that the highest individual score was by Sergeant Wade, of Company D, Goldsboro. The scores are being reserved until after the First regiment contest at Gastonia next week.

REVISION

Of Ten Commandments Urged Upon Protestant Episcopal Church.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 28.—The revision of the Ten Commandments is urged by Rev. George B. Williams Douglas, D. D., of Cannon Cathedral, of St. John the Divine, of New York, upon the Twenty-ninth Congress of the Protestant Episcopal church in session here. The views of Dr. Douglas created a sensation among the attending clergymen and delegates.

In the course of his address Dr. Douglas said: "Why may we not follow the example of the Roman and Lutheran churches so that we shall not weary our congregations with the oxen and asses and slaves, which they do not possess?"

LIVINGSTON IS SICK IN WASHINGTON

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 28.—Ex-Congressman Lon F. Livingston, who was defeated for re-election in the Fifth Georgia district by William Schley Howard in the last campaign, is critically ill at his home in this city. He was the senior member of Congress when he retired, and is nearing eighty years of age.

NO SENATE FIGHT OVER COMMITTEES

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 28.—Only a formal protest was made by Senator LaFolette today when the Senate was reorganized, to the naming of "regulars" to all the important committee positions. This action was disappointing to those who had been anticipating a bitter fight on the floor of the Senate between the Republican factions over the committee appointments.

AMERICANS TRYING TO FORCE INTERVENTION SAYS CORRAL

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 28.—The report received here that Ramon Corral, vice president of Mexico, has declared that Americans are causing trouble in Mexico in order to force intervention has caused the State Department to call the matter to the attention of Mexico in order to officially establish the truthfulness of the report. The question will be taken up by the Ambassador, to whom the department tonight telegraphed for an official statement.

Rev. L. E. Smith Will Assist in Durham Revival

Durham, April 28.—Rev. L. E. Smith, pastor of the First Christian church of Greensboro, will come to Durham Sunday, May 7, and assist Rev. J. O. Cox in a special series of revival services that will continue for two weeks at the Christian church in this city. Rev. Smith is one of the strongest preachers of the Christian denomination in the State.

Death At White Oak.

Mrs. William Clayton died Thursday night at 8 o'clock at her home, 83, Fourteenth street, White Oak, following an illness with tuberculosis. She was 28 years of age. The funeral will be held from the residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the interment to follow in the Proximity cemetery.

STATISTICS OF ODD FELLOWS

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 28.—The Grand Secretary of the North Carolina Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows has rounded up his report for the annual session of the Grand Lodge in Winston-Salem, beginning May 9, and finds that the value of property of the subordinate lodges has increased from $103,725 to $239,148 during the past decade.

In addition there is the splendid property of the Grand Lodge in the Orphanage at Goldsboro, valued at $10,000, and that is now caring for 160 homeless children at an auual cost of about $15,000.

The Grand Secretary says the order in this State has observed a rigid watch over the standing of members and has eliminated members to the extent that in spite of the addition of 1,646 new members by initiation and 266 received by card and 358 reinstated, the total membership in the State shows a loss of 296. He says, though, that since the new year the gain is decided, 480 members having been added the past three months.

The nine new lodges instituted the past year were at Raeford, Hoke county; Paulson, Cleveland county; Rock Creek, Wilkes county; Ola, Haywood county; Saw Mill, Caldwell county; Boone's Ford, Yancey county; Oval, Ashe county; Moxley, Wilkes county; Broadway, Lee county; White Oak Mills, Greensboro, and Walnut Cove.

There have been suspended lodges reinstated at Clayton and Edenton. The order paid out last year for relief $25,696 compared with $112,954 ten years ago.

The Grand Master is Frank Hackett, of North Wilkesboro, and the Grand Secretary is B. H. Wooddell and the assistant Grand Secretary is J. D. Berry.

PROFITS OF WATER PLANT AMOUNT TO MORE THAN $31,000

Report of Water and Light Commission to Council Shows Water Plant Has Been Successfully Managed.

The Board of Aldermen met in regular session last night, this being the final regular meeting of the board. An adjourned meeting will be held next Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the canvassing board and declaring the election of the commissioners. Several odds and ends will have to be wound up before the board turns the city over to the three commissioners.

David Stern appeared before the board in the interest of J. C. Bishop and presented a claim for damages in the sum of $56, alleged to have been done his property on Buchanan street because of a change in the grading of the street. The change was made in 1904, six years ago.

Alderman Glascock and Albright were appointed as the settling committee to square accounts with the various officers of the city. The report of the library trustees was read and ordered recorded.

Report Water and Light Commission.

The final report of the Water & Light Commission was received and ordered recorded. The report showed that during the year the receipts for water rents had been $35,017.62. The operating expense was $19,116.24. The commission had a cash balance of $19,674.26 on April 1, 1910, while on April 1, 1911, there was a cash balance of $31,990.86. In addition to this $2,633.35 was spent in permanent improvements. The commission recommended that the work of erecting a new building and installing a steam plant be done this summer, it being estimated that this would cost approximately $22,000. It was also recommended that the city sink a number of wells at Reedy Fork and use the water secured from these wells instead of from the river. The water coming from these wells would be filtered by natural methods and would be absolutely pure besides being clear as a crystal.

A bill from the Guilford Lumber Company for fixing some screens was presented and the matter referred to Alderman Glascock for an investigation. It was stated that eight screens had been sent to the company to repair or make new ones. Three new ones had been made and the charges for these had been $1.50 each. This had been paid. For the five screens that were simply repaired, the sum of $4 per screen was charged with the repair material added. The bill stated that fifty hours were consumed repairing the five screens. Alderman Albright who had the work done had refused to o. k. the bill.

An aligator exhibitor asked that the board allow him to show his gators without paying the usual license of $20 for each 24 hours as this amount was too steep for him. However, it was decided that it would be better for the city if the exhibition did not come to the city so if the gators are shown here the company will have to pay the regular license.

DELEWARE COMES BACK FIT

Dreadnought Needs No Repairs After Cruise of 16,000 Miles.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—Fit and ready for any duty was the report of Captain Gove, of the Delaware, to the Navy Department upon the arrival of his battleship at Boston today. Just to show that his ship is in the "pink of condition" he will take her out tomorrow morning for a full power trial trip in the waters of New England. Notwithstanding her long journey she needs no repairs.

The Delaware undertook her long trip around South America soon after her return to this country from Europe. Including the transatlantic trip the Delaware has traversed 26,000 miles without entering a drydock.

"She is a worthy successor of the Oregon, famed for her long trip during the Spanish war," said naval officials today.

LABOR DISPUTES MUST BE SETTLED

Special to Telegram.

Chicago, Ills., April 28.—The warring labor unions have been served with notice by the building contractors and architects that unless the jurisdictional disputes are settled by Tuesday, there will be a general lockout. This would throw 35,000 men out of employment. Several thousand are already idle as a result of the disputes.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT OF U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 28.—Capt. John M. Bowyer, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, today asked to be relieved on account of ill-health. Secretary Meyer granted his request and appointed Capt. John H. Gibbons, of the general navy board, as his successor. The change will take effect May 15 before the social festivities incident upon the graduation of the first class.

NEW BERN MAN MADE THIRD EFFORT TO END HIS LIFE

Special to Telegram.

New Bern, April 28.—Late yesterday afternoon Ferdinand Ulrich, who resides at No. 5 Berne street, attempted to commit suicide by taking a number of grains of bichloride of mercury. Fortunately his rash act was discovered in time to save his life. This is the third time that Mr. Ulrich has attempted to kill himself. It is supposed that despondency caused him to attempt to commit suicide.

LONGWORTH WILL LOSE CONTEST FOR AMBASSADOR

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 28.—It is unofficially reported in Washington that the appointment of Ambassador to Germany will go either to James Wadsworth, Jr., or Lloyd Griscom, both of New York.

The appointment will go to New York probably as a result of the efforts of President Taft to restore harmony in the State organization, where the placing of the "old guard" in power over the Roosevelt faction has worked against Congressman Longworth, whom it was reported would get the appointment.

DAMAGE SUIT FOR $50,000 NON-SUITED

Raleigh, April 28.—Nonsuit was ordered by Judge Whedbee of Wake Superior court in the suit of James T. Horton, a locomotive engineer, versus the Seaboard Air Line, for fifty thousand dollars damages for injuries to the eyes of the engineer through the bursting of a glass water gauge of his engine.

Admission by Horton that he had broken the outer tube, designed as a protection from accidents of the sort complained of, and that he had taken the engine out in that condition without reporting the breakage to the yardmaster, brought about the nonsuit, under the Hinsdale act.

DEMOCRATIC CONFERENCE IN ST. PAUL ON JUNE 1

Bryan, Parker and Other Prominent Party Leaders will be Present---Gov. Harmon May Also Attend Conference.

Special to Telegram.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—More than 1,000 leading Democrats of the Dakotas, Iowa, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Wisconsin and Michigan, will assemble in this city on June 1 for a conference regarding matters of party interest. Among those who have accepted invitations, sent out by the Minnesota State Democratic Central Committee, to be present and participate in the conference are William J. Bryan, Alton B. Parker, Gov. Morris, of Montant, and Gov. John Burke, of North Dakota.

Governor Harmon, of Ohio, who is regarded as the nominee of the next National Democratic Convention for the presidency, has announced his intention of being present in case the Ohio legislature adjoured in time. Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, was invited but he declined because he had already accepted an invitation to be in St. Paul on May 24 to deliver an address before the Association of Commerce and it would be impossible for him to make a second trip to this city.

Planting Late in Arkansas.

Kingsland, Ark., April 28.—Not 10 per cent of cotton and 50 per cent of corn planted in this section, account, too much rain; if quits raining now cotton will be two weeks late at least.

MADERO'S TERMS INCLUDE $20,000,000 AND OTHER THINGS

Insurrecto Leader Will Name Price of Peace When Commission Sits--Modest Madero Wants But Little.

Special to Telegram.

El Paso, Texas, April 28.—The Mexican peace commissioners will meet at El Paso to negotiate terms of peace and end the revolution. The government commissioners, who left Mexico City last night, are expected to arrive here tomorrow. The first session of the commission will probably be held here Sunday.

Terms Demanded by Madero.

Mexico City, April 28.—The terms of peace which it is said will be demanded by Madero are as follows:

Madero is to name the governors of five states. All chiefs of the revolutionary army must be given corresponding rank in the regular army. Gomez must be appointed secretary of the interior. Fair elections and a free ballot must be guaranteed in naming a President. The government must deliver to the revolutionists the sum of $20,000,000 to defray the cost of the war.

It is said the only objection President Diaz has to the terms of the agreement is in regard to the payment of the money demanded. He is willing to make the sum $15,000,000, it is understood.

It is claimed that Madero will contend for early elections to choose a president and governors of the states and to vote on constitutional amendment, making the president ineligible after two terms. He desires, also, an amendment of the election laws.

It will be observed that the acounts clearly indicate that Caesar's Head was not caught off its base by those earthquake stories.

The Ledger-Dispatch announces that it loves Norfolk in spite of the knockers, but we venture to assert that it does not love the knockers. No progressive newspaper loves a knocker.

Greenville Piedmont, for some unknown reason, thinks that Governor Blease would make a success of aviation. No doubt many of the citizens wish Blease would fly from the State.

Greenville Piedmont wants to know what use they have for a hosiery mill in Spartanburg. Perhaps the Piedmont thinks that they wear only anklets in Spartanburg.

The Charlotte Observer will please take note of the fact that The Wilmington Dispatch says they are trying to make it hot for Detective Burns." In this case we believe The Dispatch headed off The Greenville Piedmont.

The Steel Trust sells steel rails in Mexico, in competition with the world, at $24 per ton. In the United States the price of rails is $28 per ton. However, the Steel Trust is an infant industry that needs protection—in its business.

The business manager of Staunton, Va., undermined his health and brought on a case of nervous prostration while managing the affairs of that city. This news is given out in explanation of his resignation as business manager. Considering the size of Staunton it must be a difficult job to manage it.

Says the Columbia State: "The town that entertains the most house flies has no right to boast of its hospitality." True. The proper way to deal with flies is to kill as many of them as possible, but the best plan is to keep a city in such clean and sanitary condition that there will be few flies.

If the people run ex-Governor Charles B. Aycock for Senator without any assistance on the part of the ex-Governor, it will be an innovation in the politics of this State. The proposal is attractive, however. It might be well for the State to give it a trial. It would look better to see the office seeking the man than to see the man running after the office.

The new Telegram is making a fine impression on the readers of the paper. They are saying so by scores and are daily expressing their appreciation, at the office of The Telegram and elsewhere. The management of The Telegram is duly appreciative of the fact that the paper has so many warm friends and that the improvements made are meeting with their approval. It is encouraging, also, to find that the paper is winning new patrons and friends daily.

The Caesar's Head discussion is proceeding with unabated interest in the columns of those Carolina newspapers which have heretofore given much thought, time and effort to the discussion of the Mecklenburg Declaration and the birthplace of Andrew Jackson. The editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, who ought to know better, being a South Carolinian, accepts without question the statement that Caesar's Head is in North Carolina. The Richmond editor is due to receive castigation from the Columbia State.

"In 1940 Asheville will have shaken off the curse of the blind tiger," says the Citizen. The Columbia State thinks it ought to be done in twenty-nine years, even in Asheville. Fact is it could be done in twenty-nine days by the right sort of city officials. The Telegram knows nothing about the character or the course of Asheville's officials, but if that city is in the hands of the blind tigers it is due to non-enforcement of the law and failure to enforce the law is chargeable to the men who are elected or appointed to execute the mandates of the municipality and the statutes of the State.

TWO WEEKS OF COMMISSION GOVERNMENT IN BIRMINGHAM.

As is the case in most of the large cities of the country, the municipal government of Birmingham, Ala., has been unsatisfactory for years to many of the leading citizens of that place. The government of Birmingham has not been as bad as that of a few cities of the country, but it has been sufficiently bad to induce the majority of the people to earnestly desire a change; and the result was the adoption a few weeks ago of the commission form of government, with three commissioners in charge. Three able citizens of the city were selected as commissioners, and they took charge of city affairs a little more than two weeks ago. The record of two weeks of commission government is set forth as follows:

Struck approximately $80,000 from the annual payroll.
Instituted prison reform.
Caused the strict enforcement of the prohibition and gambling laws.
Declared itself against nepotism in public office.
Regulated contract abuses.
Rid the streets of vagrants.
Gave city parks over to women's clubs.
Invited the suggestions of the people at large for better government.
Rid the residence section of undesirable houses.
Demanded a strict enforcement of every law.
Urged a special campaign against automobile speeders.
Removed all felony cases from police to State courts.
Straightened out countless other minor irregularities.

The above certainly makes a splendid showing for commission government in Birmingham. Unless officials and employes have been dismissed and thousands of dollars annually will be saved to the city on this score. The other reforms mentioned were all needed and will be welcomed by the best element of Birmingham's citizenry; but, perhaps, the reform which will make the largest impression on the life of the city and will gain the commission the largest amount of approval from good citizens, is the success attending the efforts to enforce the law. The commission demands the enforcement of all the laws, but has especially stressed the enforcement of the prohibition and gambling laws.

The enactments against gambling and selling liquor were dead letters in Birmingham under the old regime. The places where liquor was sold were wide open and gambling was indulged in almost as openly. It was contended all along by the good citizens of Birmingham that these laws could be enforced and it was said that their non-enforcement was due to the fact that the officials charged with enforcing the laws did not want to enforce and did not try to enforce them. It was charged also, that a system of police protection had grown up in Birmingham and that money was being collected by those in authority from the gamblers and liquor sellers, as the price of immunity. All these charges were found to be true by the commissioners, and they immediately proceeded to put an end to the system of graft, to discharge the dishonest policemen and officials and to make it very plain to the officials under them that the laws must be enforced.

The result of the summary action of the commissioners, it is declared on the best authority, is a changed Birmingham and the change was wrought in two weeks. The liquor and gambling dens have been closed up, in addition to the other reforms which have been accomplished. The citizens of Birmingham who have been contending for that the prohibition and gambling laws can be enforced in that city have been vindicated. Those who have declared that other reforms could be instituted have been vindicated.

These thing scould have been accomplished without commission government, under the old municipal plan, if the right men had been placed in office or those in office could have been forced to the faithful performance of their duties; but the old system was weak and lame, and under it the people were powerless to bring to bear upon their public servants the direct force of their influence. The system was wrong. That is certain, whether the new system proves in the end to be exactly what is needed or does not prove to be what is needed.

However, it must be said in favor of this system that it forces the commissioners to realize that they must "make good." If they fail, they lose their positions; and they are forced to stand up right out in the open and face the people and account to them for their actions. That is one of the principal features which differentiates the new from the old system. Under the old system the smooth politician, allied with all the bad elements of the city, who could not be forced into the open to give an account of his stewardship, could afford to take chances with the voters, did take chances, and usually won. In the office he acted as suited his personal purposes best, and largely without regard to the public welfare.

Such were conditions in Birmingham for years. These conditions have been changed and changed speedily. The change may not be permanent, but the chances are that it will prove so. Commission government is making a start in Birmingham which augurs well for its success in other Southern cities.

THE GREAT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT HIGH POINT.

The State Sunday School Convention, which adjourned at High Point Friday night, was one of the most inspiring meetings in the interest of the organized Sunday school work ever held in North Carolina. The convention did its work effectively. It was attended by a great number of delegates, Sunday school superintendents, teachers and pupils, county and township officers, and the personnel of the delegates and the convention officers and speakers made the convention inspiring and its programs uplifting and edifying.

No single personage in attendance contributed more to the success of the meeting than Charles Butler. He is one of the ablest leaders of gospel singing ever seen in a North Carolina Sunday school convention. Mrs. Butler is, also, a trained and talented singer, and her voice contributed largely to the pleasure of those in attendance.

Anothr element in the success of the convention was the fact that it was held in High Point. The people of that flourishing city know how to entertain. Ten years ago the convention of the North Carolina Sunday School Association was held in High Point. No doubt the convention was royally entertained then. That was the concensus of opinion of Marion Lawrence, Dr. Spilman, N. B. Broughton and others, who were at the convention a decade ago; but High Point has increased remarkably in population, in wealth and in ability to win a reputation as a convention city, and this time a practical demonstration was given of the fact that the city has been developing all along the line.

Another element in the success of the convention was the fact that it was held in Guilford county, in the heart of the best section of the State, and in a county in which Sunday school sentiment is at a high pitch of enthusiasm and where Sunday school work and organization are taking on new life, after many years of successful and effective effort.

The work of the convention was of a high order, and its results are certain to be seen in every county in the State which was represented at its sessions; and in others, which will doubtless be benefitted by the overflow of Sunday school enthusiasm generated at the convention. The effects on the Sunday school movement in this county will undoubtedly be great. Guilford stands in the forefront of organized work, and is preparing for even greater things. Guilford's contributions are going to be enlarged, the county and township organizations strengthened and the organized work built up. While this is being accomplished the effects on the Sunday schools of the county will become visible. There are now enrolled in the Sunday schools of this county more than fifteen thousand persons. That is about 25 per cent. of the county's population, and outstrips the record of the State as a whole; but that record will be distanced in the ensuing year. The Sunday school leaders of the county believe the enrollment ought to reach more than double its present proportions. They will work to that end. Inspired by the enthusiasm and uplift of the State convention they propose to go forward, and it is certain that their expectations will be verified.

The High Point convention was a great meeting. It will give immense impetus to the State work.

WHAT NORTH CAROLINA EDITORS ARE SAYING.

Blacktorn Gavel for Clark.

Speaker Clark has another new gavel, the fourth one, coming from Killarney, Ireland, having been presented to him this week. It is of a blackthorn root and was brought to this country by Father O'Brien of Hartford, Conn. Three gavels have already been pounded into kindling wood by the gentleman from Missouri, but the Irish members of the House believe that the Killarney wood will hold him.—Salisbury Post.

Merging Mills in South Carolina.

Cotton manufacturers of South Carolina are going into it on a big scale. Four mergers, reported during the past two months, represent a combined capitalization of about $26,000,000. There are the Parker Mills Company, with $10,000,000 capital; the Pelzer Corporation with $12,000,000 or more; the Dillon Mills with $800,000 capital and latest, the Woodside Mills Company with $3,000,000. It is urged by the leaders in the merging business that by combining management and uniting financial strength great economy can be effected in management and operation, and the mills will be in better position to weather storms of depression in the industrial and financial crises.—Charlotte News.

The Federal Income Tax.

Only four States thus far have declared themselves against the proposed income tax amendment to the federal constitution—Louisiana, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and West Virginia. To insure the acceptance of the amendment the affirmative vote of only five more States is necessary, thirty having already declared in favor of it. The proposition is a just and sensible one and the prospect for its early adoption is indeed encouraging.—Twin-City Sentinel.

Wants Dr. Tyree at High Point.

We very sincerely hope Dr. Tyree will come to the First Baptist church of High Point. He is a great pastor, a sound and strong preacher and a most delightful gentleman. We would feel better to have him so near us.—Charity and Children.

NEWSPAPER OPINION.

Days of Vance and Ransom Recalled.

The report that ex-Governor Chas B. Aycock may enter the race for United States Senator against Senator Simmons awakes new interest in North Carolina affairs. Governor Aycock is a man of stature to recall the days when Vance and Ransom gave prominence to North Carolina in the Senate.—Columbia State.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Greensboro People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first;
But when you know 'tis from the kidneys;
That serious kidney troubles follow;
That dropsy, Bright's disease may be the fatal end.
You will gladly profit by the following experience.
'Tis the honest statement of a sufferer who was cured.

Mrs. William Welborn, 720 S. Hamilton St., High Point, N. C., says: "At the time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, I was suffering from kidney trouble in its worst form. The complaint had been coming on me gradually for three years. There was a constant ache in the small of my back and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I suffered from headaches and dizzy spells and I slept so poorly at night that when I got up in the morning, I was hardly able to drag myself about. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended to me that I finally gave them a trial and I cannot fully describe the complete change that took place. I gradually grew better and before long I was well. I have not been troubled since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

If the Senate means to kill the reciprocity agreement it had best do it quickly and silently. The more that measure is discussed the more clearly the people will come to understand that its defeat will be an injury to the country for which full penalties must be exacted.—Providence Tribune.

Good results always follow the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They give prompt relief in all cases of kidney and bladder disorders. Try them. Howard Gardner.

Talk to Mothers.

There is need in the home for cuts, bruises, sores and sprains, children and others are heirs to a real good antiseptic liniment, one which will not burn and hurt worse than the wound itself, and which will give the greatest relief and prevent scars. Vick's Liniment is prepared for this purpose. Take this suggestion from a trained druggist who knows.

The announcement that the Democratic majority in the House will revise Schedule K, putting raw wool on the free list and cutting down the duties on manufactures of wool, is good news.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Saved His Mother's Life.

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

"Well, you got your husband to go to church with you instead of the theater, eh?" "Yes; but he disgraced me. The pastor read four chapters from Acts and he insisted on going out between 'em."—Toledo Blade.

One Conductor Helped Back to Work.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes: "I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism and used two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy with good effect. The third bottle put me on my feet and I resumed work as conductor on the Lexington, Ky., Street Railway. It will do all you claim in cases of rheumatism." It clears the blood of uric acid. Howard Gardner.

Never Out of Work.

The busiest little things ever made are Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globule of health, that changes weakness into strength, langour into energy, brain-fag into mental power; curing Constipation, Headache, Chills, Dyspepsia, Malaria. Only 25c at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Kicked By a Mad Horse

Samuel Birch, of Bestown, Wis., had a most narrow escape from losing his leg, as no doctor could heal the frightful sore that developed, but at last Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it completely. Its the greatest healer of ulcers, burns, boils, eczema, scalds, cuts, corns, coldsores, bruises and piles on earth. Try it. 25c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

A Spring Suggestion by a Trained Druggist.

Appendicitis and many other ills come from Constipation and over-loading with food which the system cannot care for. The bowels must be cleared and antiseptic ised to give their normal functions and this should not be done by strong Catharties, as every physician will tell you. Vick's Little Liver Pills have been the bowels and mild stimulation to the lazy liver and thus cure trouble in adults and children.

Charlie Taft made his debut in baseball carrying water for the players, and his dad into politics carrying water for the elephane.—Washington Post.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health.

Can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Howard Gardner.

It may be more excellent to be right than President, but friends of Woodrow Wilson can see no reason why a man shouldn't be both.—Kansas City Star.

A Reliable Medicine—NOT A NARCOTIC

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in which I have great faith. It cured the coughs as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." Howard Gardner.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Press Bible Question Club.

(Copyright 1910 by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

April 30th, 1911.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

God's Pity for the Heathen. (Foreign Missionary Lesson.) Jonah iii:1—iv:11.

Golden Text—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations. Matt. xxviii:19.

(1.) Verses 1-2—When did the Lord command Jonah the first time to go to Nineveh, and why did he not go?

(2.) What method did God adopt in speaking to Jonah?

(3.) What method does God adopt to-day in giving special instructions to individual men?

(4.) Verses 3-4—Where was Nineveh situated?

(5.) How long would it probably take Jonah to traverse the principal streets of Nineveh and deliver his message?

(6.) Is it probable that Jonah gave the message just as the Lord had given it to him?

(7.) Verses 5-9—What steps did the king and the people of Nineveh take to prevent their doom?

(8.) What effect does repentance, fasting and prayer have in these days in preventing the legitimate and natural consequences of sin?

(9.) Are God's rewards and penalties ever absolute, or are they always conditional, and why?

(10.) How would you distinguish between the natural and moral penalty incurred by sin?

(11.) Think of our national sins and their penalty, and say what would be the effect upon the latter, if the nation should repent, and fast, and pray as Nineveh did?

12.) Verse 10—How do you explain this verse which credits God with changing His mind?

(13.) What if any evidence is there that nature, so to speak, changes her intentions to inflict penalty, when men change their conduct?

(14.) Chapter iv:1-2—Why was Jonah angry because God did not destroy Nineveh, as He had threatened?

(15.) Why, or why not, should a true Christian who is a physician, depending upon his practice for a living, never be sorry because the people are all well?

(16.) Why should those of us who teach the eternity of punishment for confirmed sinners be either glad or sorry, if in the future we learn that we have been mistaken?

(17.) Verse 3 — What weight can you place upon a man's truth, or goodness, because he is willing to die in defence of his views?

(18.) Verse 4.—Name some of the most mysterious circumstances, and say whether there are any in life, or in death, that would warrant a man in being angry with God? Give your reasons.

(19.) Verses 5-6—What if any reason is there to think that Jonah still hoped Nineveh would be destroyed?

(20.) Seeing that Jonah was angry with the Lord why did God protect, and not destroy him?

(21.) Verses 7-11—Why is it sometimes necessary for God to cause us to suffer in order to teach us lessons of love and mercy?

(22.) Does God ever punish for the sake of vengeance alone? Give your reasons. (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Lesson for Sunday, May 7th, 1911. Uzziah, King of Judah, Humbled. 2 Chron. xxvi.

A CONTINENTAL CHORUS OF PRAISE.

It is doubtful of any Bible study plan ever received such enthusiastic endorsement by the leading men of the nation as the "Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lessons" now running in the Telegram. University presidents, leading Sunday school men, pastors of large city churches, as well as of smaller places, and the rank and file of the churches praise these questions to the skies. It is hard to make a selection from so many hundreds of testimonials, but here are a few, with a word or two culled from each:

President Hadley, Yale University: "They are certainly calculated to stimulate thought." Rev. Wayland Hoyt, Professor of Religion and Science, Temple University: "I think your questions suggestive and valuable." Vice-President Gobin, Depauw University: "I am very much pleased with your questions. . . . I will see what I can do to have them published here." President Burwash, Victoria University: "I have read with great interest your questions. Your methods of dealing with the subject strikes me as most excellent." Principal Gordon, Queen's University: " . . . The method adopted by you of issuing questions for the use of . . . Bible Classes is a good one; I have tested its value in my own experience." Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, Pastor Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "Your questions are suggestive and calculated to provoke thought and investigation." Rt. Rev. Bishop Fallows: "I hope you will continue to give them to the church and the world." Rev. Dr. Schauffler, Chairman International Lesson Committee: "I have read your questions and find them most capital." Rev. Dr. Arbuckle, M. E. Pastor, Columbus, Ohio: "Your International Press Bible Question Club is a happy thought."

We urge all our readers to take up the study of these questions and compete for the prize. One big prize you are sure to get in any event. You will need The Telegram to get the questions and the coupon. Subscribe today.

ACCUSED OF OLD CRIME

Chance Remark Lands Brothers in Jail, Accused of Murder.

Trenton, April 28.—On a charge of murder committed in Scranton, Pa., in 1897, Phillipo de Angelo, one of the leading Italian business men of Trenton and a member of the Italian Trading and Baking Company, and his brother, Francesco, were arrested here today and are locked up.

The apprehension of the men for a crime 14 years old was due to the efforts of a fellow-countryman, Patrolman Antonio Pege, of the local police force. About a week ago he heard a chance remark that seemed to implicate the two, and since that time he has been working on the case. Under a rigorous examination today the men admitted that they were in the Scranton saloon where Giovanna de Santis was murdered 14 years ago, and later they confessed that they saw the killing. They insist, however, that they had no hand in the crime.

The murdered man was carried into a cellar while the murderers fled the city. The de Angelo brothers are said to have disappeared about this time and to have gone back to their home in Italy. They returned to America and eight years ago came to Trenton. The men say they fled from Scranton because they were afraid of being implicated and, being foreigners, would have had difficulty in explaining matters.

They strongly protest their innocence.

The Other One.

She was a good natured, happy looking Irish woman that walked in to a Germantown, Philadelphia, store a few days ago, and asked the price of collars that were displayed in the window. The clerk replied that they were two for a quarter.

"How much would that be for one?" she asked.

"Thirteen cents," answered the clerk quickly.

The woman pondered and pondered, and then with her fingers on the sleeve of her worn coat a little while longer. After a great effort she demanded:

"That would make the ither collar twelve cints. Just give me that one."

Wife Regards Husband as a God, Mission Convention is Told.

York, Pa., April 28.—Dr. Rachael Benn, a medical missionary, who spent 18 years in North China, interested the delegates to the Harrisburg district convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the Methodist Church, in session here today, with intimate tales of the home life of the Chinese. Among the Chinese, she said, the wife regards her husband as a god, never eating at the same table with him. If they quarrel, the wife frequently commits suicide.

Sense in Short Sentences

One of the things calculated to drive a man to drink is to arrive at a meeting place ten minutes late and find that the other fellow isn't there.

Compliments are lies which only fools believe.

The people who are punctual waste more time than the people who are always late.

Pickpockets always get paid by the job.

A bad correspondent sometimes makes a good husband.

Grumbling is some people's hobby; if you want to make them happy give them something to be miserable about.

Happiness is golden, but gold is not happiness.

Honesty is the best policy, but you had better count your change.

A little knowledge is all right if you keep it to yourself.

To correct an evil which already exists is not so well as to foresee and prevent it.

He who tells me of my faults is my instructor; he who tells me of my virtues does me harm.

APPLICATION FOR PARDON OF ARTHUR HUNTLEY.

Application will be made to the Governor of North Carolina for the pardon of Arthur Huntley, convicted at the April term, 1911, of the Superior Court of Guilford County, of the crime of robbery, and sentenced to the county roads for a term of six months. All persons who oppose the granting of said pardon are invited to forward their protest to the Governor.

This, April the 19th, 1911.

ARTHUR HUNTLEY,
By DAVID STERN,
Attorney.

Township Tax Assessors Meet.

This morning at 10 o'clock the township tax assessors of the county will meet with County Assessor Roger W. Harrison, the purpose of the meeting being to discuss the rules and laws governing the assessing of property. The assessors begin work on next Monday and will complete their work as early as possible. There is an assistant assessor for each township, all to work under the direction of the county assessor.

In Superior Court.

All of yesterday in Superior court was taken up with the case of Effie May and Jos. L. May vs. Western Union Telegraph Company, the argument beginning after the dinner recess. The argument had not been concluded when court adjourned for the day. Judge Daniels will charge the jury this morning. The remainder of this morning will be taken up in signing judgments and disposing of trifling cases. There will be no jury trials.

SILVER PLATE REVIVAL.

Many Dishes of This Metal Now Coming Into Use.

The amount of silver plate considered necessary in a well appointed house has had numerous additions in the last few years. No dinner appointments are entirely complete without a silver dish for hors d'oeuvres. The favorite style is of plain silver and has four compartments, with a glass in each.

Silver servers go with this, and it makes also an attractive setting for sweets. It is a curious fact that, while the taste for savories at the commencement of a dinner is growing, there seems to have developed an increased appreciation of sweets at the conclusion.

The most exquisite specimens of silver plate are copied from the days of George III., at which period the designing and working of silver reached their height. Spoons with long handles and rounded bowls and many patterns of the ornate period of Louis XIV. are seen. One sometimes sees colored horn handles for fish knives and fruit knives. This is a repetition of a fashion that existed in the days of George III. and gives to the table a dash of color, if one likes that sort of thing.

Among the new pieces added of late to table silver are slides for decanters or wine bottles. These are a revival of Sheffield plating of fully a century ago, and if one can get originals one is delighted, but if one is not so fortunate the copies are good and very attractive.

It is rumored that the individual saltcellars and pepper pots are to give place to the old fashioned cruet for the center of the table. These small salts and peppers have gained great beauty in recent days, and it seems almost a pity to give them up, except for the fact that a revival of this fashion of other days will bring to light many beautiful old pieces of silver and Sheffield plate.

Curtains For Living Room.

Out of the ordinary shades in house furnishings are always among the high priced materials, and a little woman who longed for something rich or unusual in window hangings for her "brown living room" despaired of finding anything less commonplace than the ordinary cream madras or stenciled scrim. One day a friend who had a friend who was a house decorator whispered a secret in her ear. She prepared two tubs full of water—one with a handful of pearline, the other with 10 cents' worth of copperas. Last year's inexpensive cream fish net curtains were dipped first in the pearline water, then in the copperas water, again in the pearline water and finally once more in the copperas water. Then they were hung up to dry. Now her living room curtains, in a wonderful shade of deep burnt orange that make a sunset effect in the simple brown papered room even on gray and gloomy days, are the envy of all her friends.

Light Reading.

The dictionary has a pile
Of words I do not know,
And, though it is not strong on style,
Its pages learning show.
You see, the author knew a lot
As page on page you turn,
For, though it doesn't run to plot,
It still has words to burn.

I don't know where he ever found
So many words as that
Unless by searching most profound
Or talking through his hat.
He couldn't pick them up, I know,
By chatting here and there
To people as they come and go
As he had time to spare.

He couldn't find them in a book,
For authors have to go
Back to his heavy tome to look
For what they want to know.
They didn't pass from mouth to mouth
The common man, I swear,
Would have his jawbone going south
On many that are there.

He made them up, I'm free to say,
And slyly slipped them there.
Who'd know the difference, anyway,
Or, for that matter, care?
It may be that my guess is wrong
And that was not his plan,
But there they are, some thousands strong,
So use them if you can.

DAILY MARKET REPORTS

WEATHER FORECAST.

North Carolina—Unsettled; showers.

South Carolina, Georgia and Florida—Unsettled; showers, except in extreme Northwest.

Alabama and Mississippi—Generally fair.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON LETTER.

(To J. E. LATHAM.)

New Orleans, La., April 28.—The map shows fair weather in Oklahoma and the Northeastern corner of Texas, Arkansas and North Louisiana, cloudy everywhere else, raining in Georgia. There was no rain over night in Texas and Oklahoma. Light rain in Arkansas, Tennessee and Atlantics. Heavier rains in Mississippi and Alabama. Indications for unsettled weather generally in the belt, but no definite rain developments are shown today. All depends on the action of the low field in the West which should take a definite course over night, and determine by tomorrow weather conditions over Sunday. It will be colder in the Northwestern quarter by tomorrow night. Liverpool was indifferent today on futures, sopts 3 lower sales 7,000.

Our market opened strong 12 higher old but unchanged on the new, New York advised between 30 and 40,000 notices were out against May, but as the near positions there advanced sharply, right after the opening, it was concluded that all tenders were being cared for promptly and that the bulls had control of the market which caused the strength in old crops here. The market is quiet but steady around opening figures.

HAYWOOD & CLARK.

Large Plantings Expected in Arkansas and Texas.

New York, April 28.—Special reports to the Journal of Commerce state that a large cotton crop is expected in Texas and Oklahoma for the coming season. Acreage in Texas has been increased from 5 to 30 and 40 per cent in many places, while in Oklahoma large increases are reported from nearly all sections. From 50 to 75 per cent is planted in Texas, and in Oklahoma the season is early and ground well prepared but planting has only just begun. Moisture ample in both states, with Texas reporting the best season in the ground for years.

THE BEAR AND THE BUTTERFLY.

A large and ferocious bear once lived in the middle of a great forest, and so fierce and terrible was he that he had the forest all to himself, for all the animals who used to live there ran away when they saw him coming. Now, this bear enjoyed being fierce and furious to the full extent. Nothing pleased him better than to frighten the squirrels into fits; therefore it was a great deprivation to him to have the animals all leave.

One morning he awoke feeling particularly gruff and grum, so he gave seventeen enormous roars before breakfast in the hope of giving somebody a good scare. But, alas, there wasn't anybody around to be scared, not even a field mouse, and the thought of all that wasted talent was so sad to the bear that he immediately started out to find something to frighten if it took him all day.

At last he met a butterfly. It was a beautiful blue and gold butterfly, and when the bear discovered it it was sitting on a wild rose eating breakfast. The bear was so delighted at finding something so scare that the roar he gave sounded almost amiable. Nevertheless it was such a roar as would have frightened a squirrel into a fit. But instead of showing symptoms of fits the butterfly continued placidly eating breakfast, just as if the bear had not spoken. At this the bear was most indignant. He didn't like the idea of having come all that distance just for the sake of scaring something and then have the thing refuse to be scared. So he gave seventeen of his loudest and fiercest roars. When he was all through the butterfly turned and said politely, "Excuse me; did you say anything?"

"Say anything?" repeated the bear. "Didn't you hear me? Aren't you frightened?"

"Frightened!" echoed the butterfly. "What should I be afraid of?"

"Why, of me, of coprse," said the bear. "Everybody's afraid of me."

At that the butterfly laughed and laughed. "You don't suppose you are so terrible, you silly creature!" she said. "You are the one that should be frightened. There is something always behind you, and it follows wherever you go."

The bear looked nervously over his shoulder.

"Oh, you can't see it," said the butterfly. "But it's behind you all the same."

"Goodness gracious me!" cried the bear. "What is it?"

"I shan't tell you," replied the butterfly, "but if I were you I'd be careful how I behaved."

"Thank you so much for telling me," said the bear, quite meekly. "I'll be particularly careful, and I won't growl and romp and roar and scare things ever any more. Goodby, Miss Butterfly," and he tiptoed back to his forest.

When he had gone the butterfly laughed and laughed. "Silly thing!" she said. "Of course there's something behind him that he can't see, but it's only his own tail!"

QUEER CAVALRY CHARGE.

Attack Upon a Stranded Gunboat by a Mounted Squad.

After the action at Sabine Cross-roads (in April, 1864) the Lexington was leading the fleet on the way down the Red river. A rifle fire was directed upon her decks from the Confederate skirmishers on the shore. At one point the river widened out and the channel meandered through an open stretch of comparatively shallow water. As the Lexington reached this open stretch the man at the wheel, who had been replaced once or twice during the trip, was struck by a well directed shot from the bank. The little vessel turned sidewise to the current and grounded bow and stern across the narrow channel. A squad of Confederate cavalry, led by General Green and ex-Governor Mouton, seized the opportunity for a brilliant coup. They rode out through the shallows, the water being up to the shoulders of their horses, keeping up such a sharp fire that the decks of the gunboat had to be abandoned. The cavalry reached the edge of the channel, and it seemed for a moment as if they would be able to get on board and take possession of the vessel. If their attempt had been successful the vessel would have been sunk where she lay and the channel would have been blocked. The next vessel in the column was still above the point waiting until by the movement of the smoke from the stacks of the Lexington it could be known that the channel was clear. The men on the gunboat finally succeeded in bringing to bear a gun from below, and a volley of shrapnel killed General Green. Discouraged by the death of their leader, the cavalry turned back to the bank. The Yankee gunners again took possession of the deck and the wheelhouse, and, getting out their stilts (long poles fastened by swinging bolts to the side of the vessel), they succeeded, although still under a sharp fire, in pushing the bows of the vessel around and getting her again under way.—American Review of Reviews.

The Four Leaved Clover.

"Three leaves, of course, I'm bound to have,"
The little clover said.
"They're all I'm set to do, but still
I think I'll go ahead
And grow another if I can,
An extra leaf, to show
That I am trying with my might
To live and work and grow."

So while the other clovers stayed
Content with leaflets three
Their braver brother added on
A fourth for all to see.
"How foolish!" cried the other ones.
"Why do an extra task?
Three leaves is all the world expects
And all that it can ask!"

But, lo, men hailed the extra leaf
And grasped its meaning, too.
For now the four leaved clover stands
For luck, a symbol true.
Since 'tis the added, willing work,
The extra bit of pluck,
That conquers all the best of life
And brings the worker luck.

Women and Society

The Women's Days.

These are the women's days—and look
What the women do!
Heading the civic work of the world and turning the wrong to true;
Putting themselves in the forward ranks of the laborers of the time
To heal the evil of government and stay
the progress of crime.
These are the women's days,
With her banners of light she goes,
To turn the street and the dirty lot
Into a garden of rose.

These are the women's days—and see how they take their place,
Helping with counsel and skill and toil
the onward march of the race!
Building us first the homes and helping us rear the child,
And then with the cohorts marching on to cleanse what is now defiled.
These are the women's days,
And sane and noble and firm
She plants her banners upon the height
And her foot on the civic worm.

Crushing whatever is bad and aiding
the good she finds,
These are the days when the woman comes to waken the weary minds
And freshen the drooping hearts and put in the lagging wills
The ginger and snap and enterprise that help them over the hills.
These are the women's days,
And royally true and fond
Unto the work that is hers to do
She's ready to make respond.

These are the women's days, of broader and nobler creed
Than sewing and sweeping and baking bread for the common daily need;
For the higher soul that she is, and the finer thread of her life,
So in a finer and higher way she comes to the civic strife.
These are the women's days,
And the greatest mothers of all
Are those who have lifted the civic sword
And marched to the battle call.

For it need not make her less in the task of love that she Should set her soul a task of life in the wars of liberty;
Should rise in the widening hour of the world's advancing plan
To plant her banner of force beside the standards of the man.
These are the women's days,
And better the civic state
Of the land in which she takes her stand
To help and consecrate.—Baltimore Sun.

The Musicale At the Normal College Tonight.

One of the announcements of the musicale at the Normal College was misleading and should have read Saturday night.

The Junior and Sophomore students have prepared an interesting program for their public recital and will be glad to have their friends and the general public present. The recital will be in the auditorium of the students building and will begin at eight thirty.

The selections to be rendered are pleasing as well as having intrinsic musical worth. An enjoyable evening is in store for all who attend.

Dance Last Night.

Last night a most enjoyable dance was given in the Elks Club in honor of Miss Katherine Brabson, who is the guest of Miss Mary Vanstory. The hours were from 9:30 to 12:30, a number of the younger social set participating. Music was furnished by Hood's orchestra.

THE RIGHT PRINCIPLES

(By VIRGINIA HARLAN.)

It is wise to know what comes first and what to do first in the matter of principles, and first is, without doubt, duty—a much hackneyed word, but it contains a rare jewel for her who will seek it by diligent application.

The principle of duty means strict adherence to one's own business and just as strict non-interference in the business of others. Duty also means undivided attention to the matter in hand, intelligent concentration of the mind on the work to be done; it includes all that is meant by thoroughness, exactness and efficiency.

The details of duties differ with individuals, and each should know her own duty better than she knows her neighbors, and better than her neighbor knows hers, but although the working details differ, the principle is always the same.

Honesty is the next principle. It means not to cheat or overcharge another. It involves the absence of all trickery, lying and deception by word, look or gesture. It includes sincerity—the saying what you men, and meaning what you say—and it never destroys a reputation.

Economy is the third principle; as well as being careful of money, it means the husbanding of one's physical vitality and mental resources. It demands the saving of energy by the avoidance of enervating self-indulgences and bad habits. It holds, for its follower, strength, endurance, vigilance and capacity to achieve. It betokens great power in her who learns it well.

Liberality follows economy. It is not opposed to it. Only the girl of economy can afford to be generous. The giving of money is the smallest part of liberality. There is a giving of thoughts and deeds and sympathy, the bestwing of good will, the being generous toward opponents. It is a principle that begets a noble and far-reaching influence. It brings loving friends and staunch comrades, and is the foe of loneliness and despair.

Self-control is the last of these five principles, yet the most important. Its neglect is the cause of vast misery, innumerable failures, and tens of thousands of financial, physical and mental wrecks. The girl who loses her temper over some trivial matter is one who by that condition of mind is self-doomed to failure. The lessons of patience, purity, gentleness, kindness and steadfastness can be only slowly learned, yet until they are truly learned one's character and success are uncertain and insecure.

A Clever Boy.

Of a class in arithmetic a teacher asked, "Can you multiply concrete numbers by concrete numbers?"

The class seemed uncertain.

"Well," said the teacher, "What will be the product of forty apples multiplied by six pounds of beef and two pounds of rasins?"

"Mince pie," said a small boy.

There's "fine sense" and "coarse sense,"
Each good in its way;
But the man who has "horse sense"
Knows when to say "neigh."

IS ORATORY DEAD?

We hear now and again that there is no oratory today, and that the spoken word has lost its force, and then we go to hear a Bryan, a Gunsulus, or a Lee, and we are at once certain that oratory was never more powerful than it is today. Indeed, we are of the opinion that we can name a half a dozen men on the platform who are the peers of the most famous orators of the past. Of these men we rank Guy Carleton Lee first. This for a number of reasons, too many in fact to mention, but we may say that he is the greatest of American orators because of his God-given voice that is as smooth as velvet, as powerful as a storm-wind, as capable of the finest shades of emotion, and of as arbrupt transitions in tone as the most wonderful violin over which a master has drawn a bow. In short, never has the voice of this lecturer been excelled. His stage presence is so graceful that he has won the title of the most graceful speaker on the American platform, but if there is one thing more than another that will make Dr. Lee angry it is to call him graceful, for he holds that force is the basis of all first-rate oratory. He has force, much of it, and it is the best of all force, for it is controlled; force in reserve. He does not open his mouth and bellow, but his deepest and strongest tones leave the impression that there are deeper and stronger tones for use when necessary, but that those heard are exactly suitable for the occasion. His enunciation is so clear and distinct that though he is one of the most rapid speakers upon the platform the audience never misses a word so clear is the manner in which they are uttered even in the most impassioned sentences. There is a spirit and a fire in the work of this distinguished orator that make us know that he is in earnest. We know that he speaks because he has a message, that he is impelled to eloquence because he can thus do the greatest good to his fellowmen. This quality of sincerity and authority marks all of his public utterances. Indeed, it has come to be an axiom that Guy Carleton Lee will not speak unless he has something to say worth hearing. His lectures are wonderful vehicles for his eloquence. "The Soul of a Woman" is one of the greatest and most powerful lectures that has been delivered on the American platform. His "Mind of a Man" is among the most eloquent efforts of the English speaking race. The "True Jefferson Davis" is a subject that at first aroused adverse criticism in certain sections of the North, but since this lecture has been delivered throughout the Northern States, the people have given to its author such praise as justifies his taking as a subject a man whom no other public lecturer has dared to discuss upon the public platform.

INDIAN BASKETRY.

Pretty Work Done Years Ago by Aborigines.

PLAYED A PART IN RELIGION.

Woman Expert Suggests That Modern Women Might Profitably Take Up the Accomplishment — Real Art Treasures of the Beautiful Handicraft Are Seldom Seen Except In Museums

"Indian basketry is a fine art and gives expression to the ideas, aspirations, religious feelings, poetry and mythology of the Indian squaw equally with the beautiful paintings, buildings, pottery, etc., of our own and many other countries." So runs the opening sentence of a manual on this ancient and interesting handicraft and its adaptation to modern uses, by Isabel A. Otty (Mrs. Williamson), recently published by E. J. Arnold & Son.

Among the American Indians baskets from the very earliest times played an important part, not only in everyday life, but in religious, wedding and other ceremonies, for which they were woven with wonderful art and skill. Among the Apache Indians the best baskets never saw the light of day till a death occurred, being hidden away by the squaw who made them and only brought out at her obsequies, when, after the death dance, performed around a huge fire, they were thrown into the flames.

A GLOVE BASKET ADAPTED FROM INDIAN COILED BASKET WEAVING.

The Ute Indians, too, used basketry for mortuary purposes. "The dead man or woman was covered with a large carrying basket, and all around were laid with loving care the finest specimens of the craft." Then there were dance baskets used in the dances that celebrated an abundant harvest and woven with designs of grotesque dancing figures; "mush," or cooking baskets, so closely woven that liquid food could be cooked in them; papoose baskets for carrying the babies, and burden baskets, both of which were carried by the women by means of leather bands placed round their foreheads, and innumerable other varieties.

Many of these are still in use among the scattered remains of the American Indian tribes, but they are becoming rarer and rarer, and the real art treasures of Indian basketry are hardly ever seen except in museums, where collections of them are priced at a very high value. Studying these thoroughly, grasping the significance of the characteristic patterns and ornaments that have been handed down through countless generations, Mrs. Williamson has evolved an adaptation of the coiled basket work in which they were made, which provides a delightful and artistic occupation for our own times. By means of excellent illustrations and diagrams allied to clear and concise directions as to the various weaves—the "simple coil," the "lazy squaw," the "Samoan" weave, and so on, she suggests to her readers a handicraft that is full of attractive possibilities.

A BUTTON BASKET.

Her book is compiled for school use, and the work described is so simple as to be quite suited to the capabilities of young children, while it is continued by means of carefully and systematically graded exercises to work suited for much older learners, who may elaborate it to any extent. The materials are inexpensive, and no tools are required except the special "squaw needle," so the occupation commends itself at once as home art that fulfills a most useful mission, educationally as well as from a decorative and practical point of view.

Hints For the New Housekeeper.

If new tinware is rubbed over with fresh lard and then thoroughly heated in the oven before it is used it will never rust afterward.

The same is true of all iron cooking utensils, such as muffin pans, skillets and kettles.

Unfortunately comparatively few new housekeepers use iron cooking utensils, which cook more evenly and are better for many things, but nearly every housekeeper has at least one iron kettle. If she wants this to be smooth and forever rustless let her try greasing it and setting it away for awhile before she cooks in it.

Altogether $565,000 has been put down as the estimated cost of the British air service for the year 1911-12.

Wages are not high in India. A native switchman on a railway and the native servant in a private family receive seven rupees, or about $1.90 a month. The farm hand receives much less, or about four rupees, or $1.08 a month. Of course, wages vary in different sections, and there is a somewhat upward tendency in prices now. However, the missionaries told me that you paid about as much for labor in India as you do in America; that one man in America would do as much as a whole company in India.—Christian Intelligencer.

A few days ago the firemen on the L. & N. train while crossing the trestle between Drakesboro and Elk Valley, saw a bird dog in front of the train on the trestle. It was too far for the dog to get to the end of the trestle before the train overtook it and there was no way of getting off without leaping to the ground. Most humans would have chanced the ground, but on a trestle there is considerable space between the engine and the ties, so crouching down in the middle of the track the dog waited for the train. The train passed over him and the dog got up and continued on his way to the end of the trestle.—Queensboro (Ky.) Inquirer.

Chickens pay even better in Alaska than they do in the imagination of the city man with a yearning for a suburban home. A Tacoma paper reports that a speculator, with two thousand live pullets, has started over the trail from Valdez for Iditarod. This is the first attempt in the history of the Valdez-Fairbanks road to take live birds over the four-hundred-mile stretch. The chickens are loaded in double decked coops on sixteen sleds. Men were sent ahead of the outfit with feed for the birds and to build houses at intervals, where the chickens will be allowed to rest and move around. The dealer expects to get $4 to $5 apiece for the chickens at Iditarod.

The perpetual flowering carnations which are rooted must be potted up into small pots in light, sandy soil. For a few days after potting they must be kept close till they have recovered from the shift; then gradually inure them to more airy conditions, but do not expose them to cold drafts. When they have attained a hight of six or seven inches, pinch out the points of the plants to form a bushy habit. Pot them on into five-inch pots before the roots become pot bound. They must eventually be placed into seven-inch pots, in which size they will flower. The shoots will again require to be "stopped" when they have attained a suitable length, unless the plants are very late, when one stopping will suffice.—Garden.

An exhibition of smokers' articles now occupies one of the permanent exhibition halls of Vienna. Modern methods of making cigars and cigarettes are shown by expert men and women, and in hundreds of booths every imaginable smokers' requirement, useful and ornamental, may be found. Among the curiosities are the long pipe, once the companion of Archduke Franz Karl, father of the present emperor; an artistically carved meerschaum pipe which was colored by Archduke Ferdinand d'Este, father of the heir apparent; snuff boxes once used by Napoleon I and Andreas Hofer and the original draft of the edict published in 1831, in which "tobacco smoking" is spoken of as "a nuisance and an insult to decency," punishable by a heavy fine.

Many persons are of the impression that wireless telegraphy is particularly subject to "tapping," but, as has been pointed out by Marconi and others, says the Scientific American, no telegraph system is absolutely secret. Any one familiar with the Morse code can read ordinary messages entering any telegraph office. At Poldhu, on a telephone connected with a long horizontal wire, the messages passing on a government telegraph line a quarter of a mile away can be distinctly read. It has been shown that it is possible to pick up at a distance, on another circuit conversation which may be passing through a telephone or telegraph wire. On one occasion an investigator was able to interfere, from a distance, with the working of the ordinary telephones in Liverpool.

The "Helpful" Who Hinder

(By CARA REESE.)

Well, that will help some, to ring up and say that you will be there for lunch and to say "goodby" before they leave. They are at their wits' end now gathering the final apparel into the suit cases and valises and had incidently made up their minds to do without food until the station was reached.

But that will help some. Always be friendly. That will help some, to interrupt a stampede of an acquaintance totoward the bank with a sympathetic whisper, "How have you fixed the matter?" It lacks a quarter of a second of bank closing time and the acquaintance has his hands full of tightly clutched greenbacks. But that will help some to have your hold on coat lapel or sleeve. Always be sympathetic.

That will help some, to crowd around when an accident happens or some street disturbance occurs. The policemen and firemen have some extra difficulty in clearing a breathing or hoisting space and the patrol and ambulance are obliged to slow up in speed and to accelerate in bell clanging. But that will help some, your presence on the spot. Always be ready.

And that will help some, to show vociferously by your applause at the wrong time the side of the question you advocate. It may give the ushers a hustle for their titles, or disturb the train of argument in the speaker's mind, or fling the good will of your personal enemies over to the opposite side. But you will help some. Always be in earnest in your support of cause.

That will help some, to hand out advice concerning the running of other folks' business, to run in and lay hold on the affairs of the children, to chime in, butt in, neb in, when your heart is warm in the cause and the desire is as overpowering as the desire to "pluck a brand from the burning." That will help some. Always be zealous. That will help some, the fee to the wrong person, the offer of assistance to the wrong traveler, the obliging and willing service to the wrong public.

If only there might be a conservation of the friendliness, zeal and service which are so generously disbursed as retail or wholesale attributes in the "help and save" departments of life, if only a useful conservation, what great results might be achieved. But, alas, expenditure is enormous. The worst feature is that those who misplace their friendliness, sympathy and service, rarely are awake to the fact. They keep on with handing down of opinions and their rushing i nwhere angels fear to tread. They keep tumbling over themselves directly in front of the wheels of progress and in the blissful belief that they are helping.

Well, they do help. They help to while away many a tedious hour for other folks when these are at leisure and are casting about for some of the interesting details of reminiscence. There are ever tender, loyal words, and a retrospective twinkle of the eye as the subject is introduced with, "then to cap the climax who should appear"—and so it goes. Blessed are the helpful.

One Missing.

An absent-minded professor was much annoyed by the troubles he experienced every morning in hunting for his clothes, for he never could remember where he had put them the night before when he undressed.

So he devised the plan of writing down on a piece of paper where each article of clothing was placed as he took it off, and this is what he wrote:

"Coat on third peg, left hand corner of room; waistcoat and trousers on chair by bed, collar on door-handle, tie through key of door, vest on floor by window, cuffs on knobs of bedstead, shirt on portmanteau, socks on gas brackets, boots outside door, professor in bed."

Next morning this plan seemed to answer admirably; he collected his garments rapidly, but when he came to the last item on the list he went over to the bed and, to his great disgust, found it empty.

"Ah!" he cried, in bewilderment, "now the professor is lost; this plan is not good. What shall I do now?"

MATCHES WEIGHT WITH TAFT.

Delaware Senator and President Have Lively Talk on Train.

Wilmington, Del., April 28.—State Senator George W. Marshall, of Milford, who tips the scale at about 300 pounds, today unexpectedly had a lively argument with President Taft as to which of them is the heavier man. Senator Marshall had been in Washington and by accident he learned after boarding a train for this city that President Taft was a fellow-passenger. He sent his card to the President's car and was invited in.

Their conversation began with the discussion of their relative weight. President Taft contended that he had Senator Marshall beaten by about 50 pounds, he thought, but he was not sure, as he did not know his own exact weight. Senator Marshall wanted him to prove it, but there was no way of doing this on the train and the President did not have time to leave the train when it arrived here. The President said he always was interested in Delaware politics and considered Senators duPont and Richardson two of his most reliable friends.

Queer Ideas of Comeliness

(By FRANCES WILEY.)

Women in different countries have what appear to us queer ideas of comeliness.

Arabian ladies, to add to their charm, stain their fingers and toes red, their eyebrows black, and their lips blue.

In Persia the women paint a black streak around their eyes and ornament their faces with various colored patches.

Hindoo women, when they wish to be particularly lovely, cover their face with a mixture of saffron and grease.

However fresh the complexion of a Muscovite woman be, she would think herself very ugly if her face was not plastered over with red, blue and yellow paint.

In Fiji the native women cover their faces with red and white stripes as an ornament.

In some parts of India the teeth must be dyed red to be beautiful.

The Chinese women stain their teeth black.

New Zealand native ladies also adopt the ebony hue, while Japanese maidens complete their toilet by covering their teeth with gold leaf.

Persian women have a strong aversion to red hair, and when it is this color they dye it.

In Turkey, on the contrary, red hair is reckoned a great beauty, and the women tint their locks their pet color.

The Nautch girls of eastern countries dye their finger nails with henna; while the Turish women stain theirs a purple color.

A Chinese mark of beauty consists in having the finger nails so long that cases of bamboo are necessary to preserve them from injury.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM...it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

A NEW HAVEN CHILD

Restored to Health by Vinol—Case Interests Many Parents.

"My little daughter ever since her birth has been frail and sickly, and was a constant source of worriment. Several months ago I secured a bottle of Vinol and commenced to give it to her. I immediately noted an improvement in her health and appearance. I gave her three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can truly say it will do all you claim, and I want to recommend Vinol to any one who desires to build up a weakened, run-down system." —J. Edmund Miller, New Haven, Conn. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

This child's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cods' livers,—aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol,—and the strongest evidence that Vinol will build up and strengthen delicate children, old people, and the weak, run-down and debiliated, is our willingness to return the purchase money in every case where it fails to give complete satisfaction. THE NURSERY

Teething.

During teething a child's appetite generally falls off a little. It is better for the child not to have his full meals then, as he is usually inclined to be somewhat feverish. Little sips of cold water will be found to be much appreciated by the baby during this time, as the gums are hot and swollen, and he naturally wishes for something cool to drink.

If the child cries and becomes restless during the night when it is not time for a meal, a little drink of water will frequently quiet him, and he will drop off to sleep again comfortably.

Pure or filtered water must be used, and it should never be allowed to stand for many hours in the room. The more serious ailments which sometimes accompany teething, such as convulsions, must, of course, be dealt with by a medical man; but until it is possible to summon his aid, a hot bath should be given to the child.

Diarrhoea is a frequent concomitant of teething, and, unless it becomes severe, it should not be checked, as it is far safer for the child to cut his teeth under those circumstances.

Cold in the Head.

A good remedy for a baby who has a cold in the head, which causes the nostrils to be stuffed up, is to twist a small piece of absorbent cotton firmly on a wooden toothpick, dip it in olive oil and gently insert it up each nostril several times daily, being careful to remove all secretions which have collected during the night.

Then rub a little cold cream or vaseline on the outside of the nose. Syringing the nose with a syringe which has a soft rubber tip is also good for this trouble. You may use for syringing a boric acid solution made of one teaspoonful of powdered boric acid, a pint of warm water, and one ounce of pure glycerine, thoroughly mixing togather.

Sit the baby upright with his back against your chest and tip his head a little forward. First syringe one nostril, letting the solution run out of the opposite side.

Then do the same to the other side. Two or three times a day is quite sufficient for this. If the child has a cough or breathes with any difficulty put a mustard paste over his chest. Let him also inhale the steam from a tea kettle. Keep him in a room the temperature of which is from 70 to 72 degrees.

Mustard Plaster for a Baby.

Take one heaping teaspoonful of mustard and six of flour; gradually add cold water until you have a mass resembling a moderately thick cake batter.

Stir this and beat it carefully until all the lumps are removed. Now spread it on a piece of cheesecloth or thin muslin, being careful to fold in the edges of the cloth so that none will leak out.

Hold before the fire or over a register until the plaster becomes slightly warm in order, that it may not chill the baby when it is applied. This plaster may be left in place five or ten minutes, or until the skin becomes pink.

It must be carefully watched, for the skin of a baby is generally very delicate. After the plaster is removed wipe the chest thoroughly and cover it at once with the flannel shirt.

Salaries of Baptist Ministers in North Carolina

Raleigh, April 28.—The salaries of the Baptist ministers in North Carolina is made the subject of some interesting calculations by Statistical Secretary F. L. Middleton, of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention. He finds that in the latest complete reports from churches there are 1,590 churches reporting salaries to pastors, the total being $278,400. He finds that there are 113 churches that maintain preaching every Sunday, 66 for half the time and 1,311 churches that have preaching only once each month. His estimate is that this would give an average of 474 pastors for full time and that their average salary is $587 per year. He thinks that there are mission funds paid to pastors in mission fields not included in the salaries reported that would bring up the avereage salaries to $600.

GENUINE ECZEMA CURE.

New Remedy That Cures Eczema Quickly.

Howard Gardner has sold hundreds of jars of Hokara in the last few weeks, and although he offered to refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied purchaser, not one jar has been returned.

While this is surprising in itself, yet the most marvelous thing to him is the reports of chronic cases of eczema that have been cured by this simple skin food. People who have suffered with scales, scabs and even bleeding itching have found relief and cure in Hokara.

You can buy a liberal sized jar for 25c and with every package goes Howard Gardner's guarantee to refund the money if it is not satisfactory. Larger size, 50c.

JAMES K. HACKETT

Card From Mr. Tate.

To the Teater-Going Public:

The engagement of Mr. Jas. K. Hackett at the "Grand," Saturday 29, matinee and night, will be one of the events of the season. Mr. Hackett is one of the greatest actors in America. He is as great a star for a man as Viola Allen is a woman. Mr. Hackett has had for years Julia Marlowe for a leading lady. He has been associated with most of the biggest stars in this country. Such as Mary Mannering, who is his wife, and many others.

"Emancipating" the Worker.

Says our Socialist contemporary the Call, in an editorial discussing the Los Angeles dynamite case:

Every news-story is cunningly calculated to convey the impression that the iron-workers have been in a great conspiracy. Nothing that could injure their standing before the people of this country is left unsaid. Nothing that could ruin their case in the court is left undone. On the other hand, the work of Burns and the others in violating the rights of the arrested men and in seizing the union records without a single shred of justice are roundly defended.

On every side the same work is going on. The same attempt is made to arouse public fury, not so much that McNamara may be murdered but in order that the working class may be beaten into submission.

This cant about "the working class" is a favorite piece of Socialist hypocrisy.

What does our friend the Call think about the twenty-one persons who were murdered in the Los Angeles Times explosion? Were they members of "the working class," or does it look upon them as carefully disguised capitalists toiling for wages? How about the ninety-one other lives that were lost in the explosions described in the McManigal confession? Did these men who were blown to death by dynamite belong to "the working class" or were they members of the idle rich engaged in oppressing labor?

The Call and all its Socialist associates are able to work themselves into a fine frenzy of fury over the arrest of a labor leader charged with conspiracy to murder, but they are unable to excite themselves at all over the workingmen who were assassinated while earning their bread in the sweat of their faces.

One of the inspiring mottos which the Call prints every day is this: "The emancipation of the working class must be accomplished by the workers themselves." It is one of the most beautiful maxims of modern Socialism, and we are led to infer that when a non-union workman is methodically destroyed by dynamite the Call regards his obliteration as part of the process of self-emancipation.—New York World.

Hurt By Exploding Light Bulb.

Chester, Pa., April 28.—Amor Talley, treasurer of Lower Chichester township, was severely injured by the explosion of an electric light globe on a Marcus Hook trolley car today, pieces of the glass striking him in the eye. In spite of the pain he proceeded on his way to Media and reported for work as a Civil court juror, but Judge Johnson excused him when he learned of the injury.

Wakes From Ten-Day Trance.

Allentown, Pa., April 28.—George, the seven-year-old son of Milton Kratzer, driver for the Pioneer Fire Company, awoke today from a state of catalepsy which had lasted 10 days. His ailment started five weeks ago with typhoid. The boy says that all the time he was in a cataleptic state he could hear all that was said, but couldn't move or talk.

Sentenced to Roads.

Durham, April 28.—Leander S. Rochelle, father-in-law of Brodie L. Duke, was convicted in the Recorder's Court of retailing. His sentence was fixed at six months on the roads, from which he appealed to the Supreme court. Rochelle was caught in a wholesale raid made last week, when sixty blind tigers were rounded up in a single night.

Worn Women

Women, worn and tired from overwork, need a tonic. That feeling of weakness or helplessness will not leave you of itself. You should take Wine of Cardui, that effectual remedy for the ailments and weaknesses of women. Thousands of women have tried Cardui and write enthusiastically of the great benefit it has been to them. Try it—don't experiment—use this reliable, oft-tried medicine.

TAKE CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Rena Hare, of Pierce, Fla., tried Cardui and afterward wrote: "I was a sufferer from all sorts of female trouble, had pain in my side and legs, could not sleep, had shortness of breath. "I suffered for years, until my husband insisted on my trying Cardui. The first bottle gave me relief and now I am almost well." Try Cardui. 'Twill help you.

Every Step in CRADDOCK SHOES Is A Step "On The Level"

Competition doesn't always make men square. Cutting corners is a quick way to one kind of success. Craddock-Terry Co., who make the wonderful Craddock Shoe, are undermining short cut successes by building the squarest shoe that is sold to-day. The very simplicity of this method is responsible for the wonderfully remarkable way that the Craddock Shoe has jumped into favor. You will quickly recognize the dollar value in the Craddock Shoe. But you are not the only one. In four short years the Craddock Shoe has swept the entire south. It is outselling shoes that have been known for thirty and more years.

$3.50 all leathers

It is impossible to beat the Craddock Shoe for style and for the varieties of good styles in this line. It is impossible to find a truer foot form or more comfortable shoes. Other shoes have style, and still others have comfort, but in addition to eye pleasing and foot pleasing qualities the Craddock Shoe is durable. It is honest in every department of shoe making from the tough old-method-tanned steer's hide sole to the last wipe of the finishing cloth.

This shoe is so thoroughly made, of such fine stout leathers, that the makers say and we say, without contradiction, "The Craddock Shoe will wear thirty days longer than any other shoe at the same price."

$3.50 No More No Less $3.50

We are showing a large variety of Craddock made shoes for ladies, in one, two and three strap sandals, pumps and sailor ties, in all leathers at $2.00, $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50.

WORM TURNED

Spartans Come Back With Fine Display of Ginger and Down Patriots.

Spartanburg, in common with the other teams of the Carolina Association that were losers on Thursday, turned the tables on their opponents yesterday afternoon, the Musicians winning from Greensboro by a score of 5 to 3. The kind of game they played yesterday was wholly different from the sort of ball the day before. They secured ten hits off Morrisey's delivery, two of them for two sacks; they ran bases well and their fielding was altogether different from what it was in the first game of the series.

The Patriots did good fielding, but were unable to connect with Smith's curves and in nine innings made only three scattered hits. This new addition to the Musicians' twirling staff was in good form and judging from his first appearance in the league, he is destined to make good. He was steady at all times and held the local batters at his mercy.

Morrisey who did the twirling for the locals had one bad inning, the third. In this frame he walked Smith, McCraney hit to short stop, and Smith was forced at second. Wynne and Walker followed with singles, scoring McCraney. Wagnon went to first on four wild ones, filling the bases. Then Williams came up and sent a long fly to left field too far back for Lowman to get, and three men scored, leaving Williams on second. This sewed up the game for Spartanburg. One more run was added by the Musicians in the eighth, when Laval hit for two bases, went to third on a passed ball and came home on Westlake's single.

Greensboro's first run was made by Bentley in the fifth. He was hit by a pitched ball, was sacrificed to second, went to third on a passed ball, and scored on Corwin's sacrifice fly to right. Two other runs were made in the eighth. Ware walked, Morrisey was safe on Wynne's error. Ware scored when Doyle hit to second base, and Morrisey crossed the rubber when Laval fumbled Fuller's hard grounder to first.

GREENVILLE, 6; ANDERSON, 1

Greenville, S. C., April 28.—Four timely double plays combined with careful fielding on the part of Greenville held Anderson down to one run in this afternoon's game; and two home runs, one by Manager Smith and one by Goodman, netted two and four runs, respectively, for the "Spinners." It was a game of much hitting, and while exciting at times, was never uncertain after the third inning.

HORNETS STUNG TWINS YESTERDAY

Charlotte, April 28.—Heavy hitting featured the game this afternoon, the Hornets getting eight first class connections. The Twins got better by two, but the hits were more scattered. They also errored at critical times, this aiding in the runmaking.

The score by innings: R. H. E.

DIAMOND DUST

His name is Smith.

The Spartans offered a better class of music yesterday.

Better not knock any flies in range of those arms of Clapp's.

Bentley's voice is strong as ever, and his laugh as contagious. His solo work harmonizes well with the Musicians.

The Musicians will give the last performance of the series at Cone park at 4:15 today.

It will Be Hauser or Wallace today.

Some class to the way "Rabbit" Doyle shoots them from third to first.

Anent the Musicians' stockings and sleeves—"any color, so it's red."

We'll wager that the newspapers in every town of the circuit will claim first place for the home team in the club-standing this morning.

Every team is at the top of the percentage column today.

The runners are together at the end of the first—lap.

Umpire O'Brien is suffering from a sprained ankle, which he hurt in Thursday's game.

There is quite a difference in the line-up of the local team for the first game tomorrow and for the first game last season. Last year Wingo was behind the bat, Brockman on first, Stouch on second, Claude Derrick was at short and Sheldon on third in the infield on the opening day. Fred Derrick, Ellis Blackstone and Ochs were in the outfield. Ellis Blackstone and Charlie Ochs alone remain.—Greenville Piedmont.

Greensboro is headed by a foxy manager in Doyle; and he seems to have gathered together a likely bunch of pill handlers. In games with the Danville and Lynchburg clubs, of the Virginia League, his men took three games out of five, and came near taking the fourth. Doyle is having his first experience as manager; but he is old in the wisdom of the game. During the last three years the different teams with which he has worked have played 507 games. Of this number, Doyle took part in 505, a mighty good record for any ball player. —Spartanburg Herald.

CAROLINA, 3; GUILFORD, 2

Chapel Hill, April 28.—Carolina and Guilford pulled off a fine exhibition of ball playing here this afternoon. The feature of the contest was a home run by Edwards of Carolina. The score was Carolina 3, Guilford 2.

DAVIDSON 4, 7; SOUTH CAROLINA 6, 2

Davidson, N. C., April 28.—Davidson and the University of South Carolina played a double bill at Greenwood today. The morning game resulted in a score of 4 for Davidson and 6 for South Carolina. The score of the afternoon game was Davidson 7, South Carolina 2.

O'LOUGHLIN SAYS BE BOSS. OF DIAMOND ALL THE TIME

"Boss of the diamond," says Silk O'Loughlin, famous American league arbitrator, whose name is a household necessity in most American homes.

The "best umps" is a tyrant on the field—in the opinion of players who like to "start something." He rules with a hand of iron. The lippy belligerent is hustled to the bench or clubhouse and is apt to hear "that will cost you $50."

And O'Loughlin's banishment and fines go, as many players have discovered. He is backed up in everything he does by President Johnson, the man who introduced the national game to polite society and who insists upon keeping it there.

"An umpire, like a player," says O'Loughlin, "must think in advance. He must know each man's peculiarities, his strength and weakness. He must so plan that he be in the most advantageous position to render instant decision upon every play and at the same time must not interfere with the play.

"He must study the delivery of every pitcher, gauge his curve ball and note the jump of the fast ball. He becomes through experience, able to know instinctively where a curve ball or fast ball will cross the plate or skim by it.

"Running his own game does not mean surliness. It means the umpire is sent onto the field to represent the league, to decide plays and interpret the rules. He may not tolerate interference; he may not permit a player to 'show him up.' He must retain his dignity and not permit an argument. He should not make his decision too quick, or he may have to change it. It isn't a good thing to have to change decisions, and earn a reputation for being premature.

"Ball players are human, and when they realize an umpire is stern, but just, they are less apt to kick over the traces even in the heat of a hotly contested game than if they have reason to believe they can gain anything by attempting to bullyrag. Of course, umpires make mistakes, not being infallible, but on the whole their decisions are correct, as the players admit when off the field, although sometimes they find it hard to do so when the battle is raging."

Whitsett Highly Praised.

Whitsett, April 28.—The Winston-Salem Journal of Wednesday morning has the following to say of the game which the Whitsett team played with Clancy's fine Twin City League Team on Tuesday afternoon with a score of 4 to 1.

"Featured by fine pitching. Ray, Whitsett youngster, fans 12, and yields 4 hits. Ray the pitcher for Whitsett had it all.

"The whole Whitsett team played good ball. Being young they were a bit rattled in places but the young slab artist was not. A nice, clean lot of gentlemently young ball players these, who have been trained in fielding the ball, and whose pitcher had the old 'uns fooled completely.

"No, the Twins didn't see 'em much yesterday. Youngster Ray had a few rank twisters. Those fans that thought that there would not be much of a game at the ball park yesterday are sorry now."

NEWS OF THE BOXERS.

Harry Ely will return to Memphis, Tenn., to take charge of the match-making for the Southern Athletic Club, of that city.

Raris is so overrun with American fighters that many of them cannot get engagements. There are only two clubs in that city and there are enough boxers to furnish contests for 10 clubs.

Farmer Harris, the aggressive Philadelphia middle-weight, is training regularly and is ready to fight any middle-weight in the business.

An effort is being made to match Young O'Dare and Benny Kaufman for next Tuesday night in Philadelphia.

Frank O'Brien has been appointed representative in Philadelphia for Ad Exnicious, manager of the New Orleans Athletic Club.

Sam Langford has offered to fight Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant, but he is not likely to get the chance, as Morris is looking for easymarks.

Al Kaufman has been matched to box Jim Flynn, of Pueblo, Col., in a 10-round contest at Kansas City on May 5.

Tom McMahon of Pittsburg, has been matched to box 10 rounds with Bill McKinnon, of Boston, at Tom O'Rourke's Club in Philadelphia on May 5.
